FYI, this is revised summary of the pilot that was shared with Milwaukee officials and the media. The couple of errors that were noted in the draft version that we used on our conference call have been corrected, and the public outreach discussion was made more complete.

Also, upon further investigation, the “baseline” samples collected from Street A were actually collected during the active construction phase of the project but before the service had been connected to the new water main. This provides a reasonable explanation for the elevated Pb level in the well-flushed sample in House 3. This information is added to the summary.

Feel free to share this version.

The actual data were provided only to those media who asked. They are also attached for your reference.
